Adams, Arogeti graduate from Leadership Atlanta

Atlanta, June 04, 2008 – Two associates of the Private Bank of Buckhead are among those who recently graduated with Leadership Atlanta’s Class of 2008.

Brent Adams is a senior vice president and relationship manager with the bank; Joel Arogeti was recently re-elected to Private Bank of Buckhead’s board. Arogeti is president and CEO of Kitchens Kelley Gaynes, PC, a Buckhead-based law firm.

“As a Leadership Atlanta (Class of 2005) graduate myself, I am especially proud that both an officer and a director of the bank were selected for this honor and completed the program,” says Private Bank of Buckhead’s President and CEO Charlie Crawford. “Both gentlemen are leaders, not just within their respective fields, but also within the community. I have no doubt the Leadership Atlanta experience has helped them further develop their leadership skills, and the community at large will benefit.”

Leadership Atlanta’s mission is to build a better community for everyone in the Atlanta region. Founded in 1970, Leadership Atlanta (officially known as Atlanta Leadership Development Foundation, Inc.) is the oldest continuously running training program of its type in the country.
